Dear CES Team

At our end-of-year Indaba in the Department of Environmental Science, we make an effort to identify and thank those who we feel have made an especially important contribution to the successes that we have achieved during the past year. High on the list was CES, which has contributed in no small measure to undergraduate and postgraduate teaching in Environmental Science, and to supporting several of our community-engagement initiatives – in your case by supporting the Environmental Quiz that is run for local Schools. The EIA Course that is run jointly is increasingly in demand and receives excellent evaluations by participants. We are very grateful for your ongoing interest in what we do and teach, and for affording us opportunities to generate environmental awareness beyond the confines of the classroom. You greatly enrich the lives of our students and community, and the things that you do are highly regarded and greatly appreciated.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the CES team for making a difference in our (and our students) lives, and of wishing you a safe, peaceful and happy Festive Season, and a Prosperous New Year.

Kind Regards

Fred Ellery
